

Dear colleagues,

The Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics has launched a search for an instructor in agribusiness management. The position is open rank, i.e., a candidate, depending on qualifications and experience, may come in as an Instructor, Advanced Instructor, or Senior Instructor. See Section 5.1.16 of the Virginia Tech Faculty Handbook. Salary is negotiable and commensurate with experience and qualifications. The position involves a full-time, nine-month appointment with opportunities to earn additional income in the summer through teaching or other means. The usual teaching load is 3-3, although there is flexibility around the teaching assignment depending on the level of service assignments (i.e., committee work), etc. Most of the teaching will be in our undergraduate agribusiness program, although there may be opportunities to teach in our M.S. program if the successful candidate holds a terminal degree.

Our department is now searching for the Kohl Endowed Chair of Agribusiness Management, who will lead our Kohl Centre. The individual in the instructor position will become part of a growing team of faculty supporting the experiential learning mission of the Kohl Centre.

Specific questions can be directed to Dr. Dixie Watts Dalton, dixie@vt.edu, search committee chair.

Please share this announcement broadly with your networks.

Dr. Dixie Watts Dalton

Associate Professor of Practice

Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics

OMALS Agribusiness Concentration Coordinator

<https://www.cals.vt.edu/academic-programs/online/concentrations.html>

Online Master of Ag and Applied Economics Faculty Coordinator

<https://onlinems.aaec.vt.edu/>

Virginia Tech

540-231-3727